

Verify a forex resource

Use this sheet to check one document before applying its instructions. It is a short printable companion, not a complete forex textbook or a recommendation to trade.

1 Record where the document came from

Document title / publisher:

Official publisher URL:

Publication or revision date / date you checked it:

2 Match its scope to your question

Product: OTC forex / CFD / currency futures / other:

Jurisdiction and named account provider, if relevant:

What does this source answer? What does it leave unresolved?

3 Check before relying on a claim

- ☐ Original publisher, not a copied or repackaged book.
- ☐ Product and jurisdiction match the question.
- ☐ Live fees, margin terms and withdrawal rules checked separately.
- ☐ No guaranteed return, urgency or unexplained payment request.

One claim to verify against current official documentation:

Official starting point: CFTC, Eight Things You Should Know Before Trading Forex (August 2022; US OTC retail-forex risks). Read the original advisory; a risk guide is not a trading strategy.

CFTC advisory and PDF link

Record one blind practice decision

Complete the first section before revealing another candle. Use historical or demo data only. A good record can include a decision to do nothing; one result is not evidence of an edge.

1 Before revealing the next bar

Displayed pair / chart interval / displayed date and time:

What is visible now? Trend, range, or uncertain:

My exact observation rule and condition that would contradict it:

My decision now: observe / hypothetical long / hypothetical short:

2 After revealing the next bar

What changed? Record the new bar without editing the earlier rule:

Did the evidence support, contradict, or leave the idea unresolved?

What will I test in a separate session?

3 Keep chart practice separate from broker execution

ChartMini intraday replay starts from a randomly selected historical crypto or forex segment with a five-minute base. You cannot choose an exact pair and date. It is not a live broker demo or a copy-trading service.

Chart observation does not verify executable bid/ask quotes, spread, commissions, financing, margin, liquidation or withdrawals. Check those separately in current provider documentation. Do not infer a live return from this exercise.

Read the resource guide and use the worksheet together